EIGHTEEN UNIQUE STORIES

More than a dupatta.

A story in color.

Hand-painted dupattas from a women-led artisan collective in rural Bengal. Each piece turns cloth into a moving canvas: drawn by hand, colored with patience and made to bring traditional craft into contemporary life. No two pieces carry the brush in quite the same way.

*Same hands.
New stories.*

WEST BENGAL, INDIA
WHERE EVERY LINE BEGINS BY HAND.

Each design is drawn in hot wax, line by line. The cloth is dyed in layers, allowing color to settle naturally. What emerges is a one-of-a-kind piece of wearable art.
